P.Diddy won't be looking forward to his latest lawsuit that paints him as a real life Bad Boy. Former Bad Boy Records intern Henry Owusu is suing P. Diddy (Sean Combs) for ten million dollars after allegedly being involved in an assault against him last year. Owusu's lawyer Adam Shapiro says the alleged assault happen after his client got into an argument with P. Diddy's secretary.

Along with his security team Owusu said P. Diddy informed him "I got people who will throw you out a window", and proceeded to attack him. After allegedly being attack Henry Owusu said he was shoved into an elevator and now is left with permanent scars. "This is going to send a message to P. Diddy; he can't do this", Adam Shapiro said. In other news, P. Diddy is back in the studio working on his latest solo album "PD5" and a new "Making of the Band" with an all girl group after spending a grueling few months on his Vote or Die campaign.
